Dr. Carnegie was deeply committed to nursing education and established ground-breaking opportunities for African Americans in the profession. In 1994 she received the @AAN_Nursing Living Legend award for her exceptional contributions to the field of nursing. #NurseoftheWeek

The graphic features a dark green background with decorative sunburst patterns in the corners. At the top center is the Nursing Community Coalition logo, which consists of a white circle with three dots inside and the text "NURSING COMMUNITY COALITION" to its right. Below the logo, the text "NCC Nurse of the Week" is written in a white serif font. Underneath that, the name "MARY ELIZABETH CARNEGIE" is displayed in a larger, bold, white serif font. A quote in white text follows: "In nursing, you can be anything you want to be - practitioner, educator, administrator, executive, researcher, journalist, consultant, congressional leader, policymaker, health advocate." To the right of the text is a black and white portrait of an elderly woman with short, wavy hair, smiling broadly. At the bottom center, the hashtag "#YearoftheNurseandMidwife" is written in a small white font.
